Harness the potential of information

Information is power, and the volume of data that fuels it is growing at rapid speed. Data from communications, business transactions, analytics, and more is pushing technologies to a tipping point—creating new opportunities to capture, connect, and communicate. To capitalize on these opportunities, you'll need a trusted advisor who can help you navigate converging technologies and mine the intelligence within the data.

ON-LINE's Managed Print Services (MPS) is an integrated solution that helps your organization harness the power of information within your printing environment by integrating digital and paper workflows, increasing data access and management through enhanced security, and expediting information flow through mobility. Our clearly defined, scalable strategy for MPS drives productivity and profitability no matter your size or industry.

The data tipping point

ON-LINE MPS helps transform unmanaged data into intelligent information that can be captured, connected, and communicated while advancing your organization's environmental, security, and mobility goals.

A strategic framework for MPS

Our proven, three-part approach to MPS can turn your imaging and printing environment into a strategic asset, making your organization more profitable and productive at every stage. This approach optimizes infrastructure to put the right devices in the right places, manages environments to provide visibility into your total printing costs, and improves workflow by streamlining industry-specific business processes.

The ON-LINE Managed Print Services 3-part strategic approach

	Optimize infrastructure	Manage environment	Improve workflow
Opportunity	Put the right devices in the right places and increase security and mobility	Manage, track, and simplify your imaging and printing environment	Digitize and streamline paper-intensive business processes
Benefits	Increase user efficiency and satisfaction while reducing the visible and hidden costs of imaging and printing	Enable IT staff, help desk, and end users to work more effectively	Accelerate business results and increase operational effectiveness
